

Being a Boy

Teacher/ Advisor CPD with author Mark Roberts

Join us for the first in a series of 'Being a Boy' CPD events, with expert guest speakers, focusing on the educational challenges experienced by working-class boys. The series will examine attainment-related issues including masculinity, socio-economic inequality, peer pressure and mental health.

The event will take place online on Zoom, 9 February 2022 at 16.00 – 17.00.

Register your interest and we'll send you a link to attend the online event.

Keynote Speaker

For the first session we are joined by Mark Roberts – a leading expert in issues relating to boys and educational success. Mark Roberts is co-author of the hugely successful book Boys Don't Try? Rethinking Masculinity in Schools. His latest best-selling work, The Boy Question: How to Teach Boys to Succeed in School, was published June 2021. Mark also writes regularly for TES on subjects including pedagogy, behaviour, leadership and educational research. Having previously worked in schools in Devon and inner-city Manchester, Mark recently moved to Carrickfergus Grammar School in Northern Ireland, taking up a position as the country's first Director of Research, a role that he combines with teaching English.
