You can find this information listed on the appliance manufacturer's label located on the back, bottom or handle of the appliance, or in the specifications section of the appliance's owner's manual. The label or manual will show the input voltage (110, 120, 220, 240; written as: 120 volts, 120V, 120 volts AC, or 120VAC), the wattage (written: 100 Watts or 100W) or the ampage (0.5 Amps, 0.5A or 500mA).

Green Living at AUB Halls

Arts University Bournemouth is conscious of its responsibility to promote environmental awareness and sustainability. We encourage residents to minimise energy use, use any appropriate recycling facilities and to generally reside in halls in as 'green' a lifestyle as is possible.

Repeated or deliberate wastefulness (e.g. leaving lights on, showers running, etc.) or otherwise failing to respond to the need for energy conservation, may result in disciplinary action or additional costs.

For advice on ways to be more sustainable whilst living on a budget, check out our advice here from the AUBSU Green Officer: Being sustainable on a budget.
