BA (Hons) Visual Communication

Please note that the former Arts University College at Bournemouth (AUCB) became the Arts University Bournemouth (AUB) on 13 December 2012. All references in this document to AUCB, the University College or the Arts University College should be taken to refer to AUB, the University or the Arts University.

This Programme Specification is designed for prospective students, current students, graduates, academic staff and potential employers. It provides a summary of the main features of the programme and the intended learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if he/she takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided.

Whilst every endeavour has been made to provide the course described in the Programme Specification, the University reserves the right to make such changes as may be appropriate for reasons of operational efficiency or due to circumstances beyond its control. Any changes are made in accordance with the University's academic standards and quality procedures.

This document is available in alternative formats on request.

Course Philosophy

Visual Communication is a broad discipline, encompassing graphic design, image generation, typography and screen-based design, and its practitioners are characterised by their innovative multi-disciplinary approach to the development of contemporary communication solutions.

The course will enable you to develop a mature, interrogative and experimental approach to your specialist practice, which will be centred on the self-directed exploration, cross-fertilisation and realisation of ideas.

Substantial projects will allow you to gain an enhanced understanding of how analysis and evaluation drive the design process, extend their practical skills, and increase their knowledge of generation and reproduction processes and industry-standard software. An integrated approach to theory and practice within learning and teaching ensures that practical work is soundly underpinned by theoretical principles, and informed by an awareness of current cultural, social, political, ethical and environmental issues. Your industry knowledge and understanding is strengthened through independent research, individual and collaborative participation in 'live' and prestigious competition briefs, and personal interaction with industry practitioners through portfolio reviews and guest visits.

On successful completion of the course, graduates will be practically and intellectually equipped to work at any point on the visual communication continuum from the highly conceptual to the mainstream, having acquired the independent and collaborative working practices necessary to manage their own role and progress their own future development within a professional context. Those wishing to undertake a Masters degree will have had the opportunity to gain the academic skills and understanding essential for postgraduate study.

This philosophy is designed to ensure that you will benefit as much as possible from your studies but only you can maximize your time here. So be positive, be energetic, and work towards becoming a visual communicator who is a critically and intellectually informed practitioner.

Teaching and Learning Philosophy

Visual communication respects the foundations of formal, aesthetic and analytical knowledge while responding to the multidisciplinary nature of contemporary communication by providing a creative and energetic working environment for the exploration, development and cross-fertilisation and realisation of ideas; covering analogue and digital graphic design, image generation, typography and screen based design, it has evolved to reflect the nuances found in contemporary creative practice, and for the last four years has produced graduates who have been successful in meeting the demands of working in the visual communication industry.

The working ethos of the course enables you to have the confidence to experiment, to be innovative and to question existing practice from the position of being well-informed about the broader cultural context of your discipline. You can achieve this by being responsive to the close inter-relationship between all the creative disciplines, making full use of the unique interdisciplinary potential of the Arts University College Bournemouth.

The course aims to create a challenging environment within which you can develop a considered approach to social, political, ethical and environmental issues and the potential of visual communication to inform and raise awareness of such issues through soundly-conceived ideas and innovative practice.

As students you will progress through this intensive programme and continue to develop your individual specialist practice, enhancing your critical and problem solving intelligences working within frameworks of creative methodologies. You will need to be flexible in managing your own learning and development as this is challenging, those who rise to this challenge will benefit enormously from the experience and go on to the forefront of their chosen career.

Communication

The staff team value good communication and ease of access to important documents; students who wish to get the best from the course will ensure they communicate regularly with staff through the appropriate channels; AUCB email and briefing sessions.

It is the student's responsibility to ensure that communication is checked and goes through these proper channels.

AUCB emails are the main source of contact and you should ensure you check your AUCB account daily. Information regarding lectures, trips, assessment and tutorials along with any other vital information will be sent to your email address.

The course team will only respond to email from AUCB address and email will only be answered on weekdays between 9.00 a.m. and 5.00 p.m.

We hold all documents on MyAUCB such as project briefs, group lists and presentations. This can be accessed inside and outside of the University College with your AUCB email address and password.

Staff can be contacted by phone, there is a message service that should be used if no one is available to take your call. The course team will respond to messages left within working hours.

Tutorials to discuss academic issues are organised by the staff team, but students wishing for additional tutorial help can request a tutorial by email. This should be requested well in advance of the date of the tutorial; once a time is set it is vital that you attend.

Housekeeping will be held at the beginning of every session. At this point we will disseminate all information pertaining to that day's activities and any other relevant information pertaining to the course.

A whiteboard located outside of the studio is updated weekly with the week's events, lectures, and things happening in the near future.

A notice board holds information regarding cultural events that will be of interest such as lectures, gallery shows and workshops in and outside of AUCB.

The course team cannot reset passwords or assist with recovery; if your details are lost you will need to contact the ITCS helpdesk on.

Course Aims

- A1. to maintain a working ethos within which to feel free to experiment, to be interrogative, analytical and innovative, to question existing practice and to arrive at final resolutions from an informed knowledge base.
- A2. to encourage cross-course and collaborative working, making full use of any interdisciplinary potential of live projects.
- A3. to promote the consideration of sustainable design in relation to ethical issues – social, cultural, political, environmental – and the potential of visual communication to inform and raise awareness of such issues through soundly-conceived and innovative practice.
- A4. to encourage the exploration of broad critical and cultural contexts of visual communication relating theory to practice.
- A5. to enable you to refine your understanding of the fundamental importance of research, evaluation and reflection in relation to practice, and to make judgements that are critically informed both aesthetically and professionally.
- A6. to equip you with the learning strategies of intellectual and critical enquiry and visual analysis which will enable you to arrive at visual communication solutions appropriate for specific audiences.
- A7. to equip you with the advanced technical skills necessary for professional practice, by ensuring they are fully conversant with the processes of origination, reproduction and distribution, and are able to draw on new and traditional media and processes.
- A8. to enable you to refine the transferable skills and collaborative and independent working practices which are increasingly necessary within the contemporary visual communication industry.
- A9. to prepare you to progress your academic practice and interests in postgraduate study, including through the development of advanced visual, written and verbal communication skills.

Course Outcomes

By the end of the course you will be able to:

- O1. apply a broad range of analytical, interrogative processes that inform experimentation, innovation and resolution.

- O2. quantify the benefits of cross-course and collaborative and/or interdisciplinary practice in academic and professional environments.
- O3. apply an ethical approach to sustainable design and visual communication problem solving.
- O4. demonstrate a sound understanding of the broad critical and cultural contexts of visual communication, and knowledge of the principles and methodologies which underpin them.
- O5. select, evaluate and critically reflect upon a range of research in order to create effective visual communication solutions.
- O6. demonstrate the ability to produce critically informed visual communication solutions targeted at specific audiences.
- O7. demonstrate competence in the advanced technical skills necessary for professional practice.
- O8. evidence their ability to manage their own role within a professional context.
- O9. demonstrate the academic ability necessary to progress to postgraduate study.

University College Learning and Teaching Strategy

Learning, Teaching and Assessment

Learning and Teaching Strategies

The teaching and learning within BA (Hon) Visual Communication's working studio environment is fluid and open so that you can make the most of opportunities that arise from both within and beyond the curriculum structure. This manner of teaching is essentially multidisciplinary, and is characteristically based on collaborative studio practice. Projects explore the interface and overlap between analogue and digital technologies, and look at ways in which traditional 'craft' media and processes can be used alongside developments in digital technology. We are interested in the 'hybrid' processes, visual thinking and ideas generation from concept to final outcome that emerge from this overlap, with a particular focus on print and digital/traditional publishing, typography and screen based design.

Honours study combines independent learning and taught sessions.

The course objectives will be met by deploying a wide variety of teaching and learning methods including workshop projects, studio projects, lectures, seminars, group critiques, guided reading and tutorials.

The methods employed will, whenever possible, lead you into the disciplines required of a creative design practitioner and promote the transferable skills of self-management and self-reliance.

The course is structured progressively to provide increased opportunities for autonomous learning.

The progressive promotion of student-centred learning reflects maturity as a student and allows learning towards individual goals.

Teaching is directed at supporting individual engagement in learning although there will be opportunities to work in teams/collaborations to enable learning of the value of peer cooperation.

The integration of theory and practice is promoted and reinforced through a team teaching approach. Lectures, seminars and tutorials may be delivered by team members, as appropriate, in the creative environment of the studio.

The BA (Hons) Visual Communication allows you to pursue your particular creative interests and to extend the scope and depth of your enquiry. You will be encouraged to formulate and identify your particular professional and academic interests. Risk and ambition within the field will be crucial to your individual development. Intellectual and academic integrity will be further encouraged, both through written content and 'thinking through practice'.

A Guest Speaker Programme of professionals involved in the creative industries will stimulate, enlighten and enable you to formalise your own career objectives.

Transferable, business and employment skills will also be incorporated through this programme. Professionals from the University College's Enterprise Pavilion will also be invited to present opportunities to the student body.

In Level 6 you must take the major responsibility for your study. Teaching support reflects the expectations upon you as a mature learner, through tutorial support that complements the autonomous nature of your study.

Negotiated Learning Agreements are the principle means of defining learning goals and monitoring progress and achievements. Level 6 studies provide the opportunity for you to extend your interests and abilities and demonstrate your capacity for sustained independent and professional work.

Assessment

Each unit is assessed separately, and the assessment forms part of the unit. Assessment both provides a measure of your achievement, and also gives you regular feedback on how your learning is developing.

For every unit of your course you will be provided with a Unit Handbook, which will state what you are expected to learn within the unit; the work that you have to submit; and how it will be assessed. The Unit Handbook will also give the deadline for presenting your work for assessment.

You will receive a final mark for each unit in the form of a percentage, which will be recorded on your formal record of achievement (transcript). Each component of assessment is graded using a notched marking scale, whereby only certain marks are used within each grade. The only marks available within any ten-point band are *2, *5 and *8 (eg 42, 45, 48). These marks correspond to a low, mid, and high level of achievement within each grade band.

On successful completion of your Honours degree course, you will be awarded a degree classification based on your unit marks. The final classification is determined using all unit marks at Levels 5 and 6 using two different algorithms, which are detailed in your Quick Guide to the regulations. If the two algorithms produce different results, you will be awarded the higher class of degree. For further information on progression, awards and classifications, please visit <http://intranet.aucb.ac.uk/registry/academicregulations.aspx>

Course Structure

All students are registered for the award of BA (Hons); however exit awards are available if you leave the course early, having successfully completed one or two levels. If you successfully complete a level of the course, you will automatically be entitled to progress to the next level.

For the award of a Certificate of Higher Education (CertHE), you must have achieved a minimum of 120 credits at Level 4. This qualification may be awarded if you leave the University College following successful completion of the first year of your course.

For the award of a Diploma of Higher Education (DipHE), you must have achieved a minimum of 240 credits of which a minimum of 120 must be at Level 5. This qualification may be awarded if you leave the University College following successful completion of the second year of your course.

For the award of a BA (Hons) you must have achieved a minimum of 360 credits of which a minimum of 240 must be at Level 5 or above, of which a minimum of 120 credits must be at Level 6. This qualification will be awarded upon successful completion of your course.

A BA without Honours may be awarded if you have achieved 300 credits, at least 180 of which are at Level 5 or above, and at least 60 of which are at Level 6.

Course Content

BA (Hons) Visual Communication facilitates your continuing educational experience into the exciting, invigorating and inspirational world of multidisciplinary nature of contemporary communication. In order to make the most of the opportunities that this course offers, you will need determination, a playful attitude, an inquiring mind, enthusiasm and lots of passion for the subject. By the time you complete the course you will look at the world around you in a completely different way. You will grow as a designer, a reflective thinker, a decision maker and visual communicator. You will be ready to progress your professional career aspirations in the creative industries or postgraduate study.

You have begun a journey on a full-time course with a teaching team that has a strong, student-centred, teaching and learning approach. The course offers the opportunity to explore the broad spectrum of graphic design practice, including: typography, illustration, screen based design, and photography and continue to develop your skills and understanding gained from previous study or work place experiences. Facilitated through a diverse range of learning activities, you will investigate and find practical applications for design theory and visual research methods, answer projects set and evaluated by practicing designers and real world clients and identify a practice area of personal interest to you within the creative industries. This will culminate in a self-initiated major project where you will be asked to research an area of particular personal interest, write a project proposal and produce a body of work. This project will allow you to take your initial ideas all the way through to final outcomes such as design for print and design for the screen, or any combination that your research leads you to. The course will help you to achieve and expand your technical understanding while exposing you to proven methodologies for visual research, idea generation and cutting-edge industry practice.

There is a strong emphasis on balancing practical skills, conceptual thinking and research methods, working as part of a team and on the acquiring of lifelong learning skills. This is achieved through a variety of teaching methods including workshops, seminars, group activities and individual tutorials.

Resources

Specialist resources:

Each studio is equipped with a suite of Apple Macintosh computers each with industry standard software. There is also book binding and movable type equipment that can be accessed upon request.

University College Resources:

Library

The course is supported by a Subject Librarian who liaises closely with the team to ensure that the Library resources are relevant and meet student and staff research needs. As part of the AUCB's Information Literacy Framework, the Subject Librarian provides sessions on researching and using information, as well as individual support for students in the use of Library resources. There is also another member of staff part of whose role is to assist students with any additional needs.

The Library holds an excellent range of specialist learning materials including books, journals, CDs, DVDs, and newspapers. It has subscriptions to a wide range of specialist electronic resources focusing on art, design, media and performance, including e-books and e-journals.

The Library is wi-fi enabled and facilities include viewing rooms, a presentation space, a silent reading room, photocopiers, iMacs and PCs. The open plan design and high quality resources make the Library a popular space for work and study. The Library consistently receives high scores in both the in-house and national student surveys, which are carried out annually.

Information technology

The University College provides a comprehensive range of IT resources, utilising Apple Macintosh, Windows Personal Computers and specialist resources for its art, design, media and performance disciplines. The University College uses industry standard software from Microsoft, Adobe, Macromedia, Apple, Quark and leading software suppliers, and is continually investing in its technology and resources.

IT resources are also available to you via the Library, plus through a number of bookable IT suites and dedicated base room provision. To enable access to learning resources, wireless internet access is also available.

The ITCS section (Information Technology and Communication Services) provides a helpdesk facility for IT enquiries and fault notification. The Helpdesk is open from 8.30am until 5pm from Monday to Friday Email: itcshelpdesk@aucb.ac.uk

Museum of Design in Plastic (MoDiP)

MoDiP is a registered museum of 20th and 21st century design and popular culture with a focus on plastics. Its collection is unique within the UK and has been developed to support teaching and learning at the Arts University College at Bournemouth.

There are many ways in which MoDiP can play a part in your studies:

- as a source of inspiration – large numbers of items may be viewed, handled and explored in depth, drawn, photographed and filmed
- as the focus of a brief for products and projects relating to course work
- as an exhibition venue – your work can be displayed in relation to the collections and exhibitions and events may be mounted in the museum space

The Museum is in a purpose built space within the Library, designed with wheelchair access in mind, and has the same opening hours as the rest of the University College for the viewing of exhibitions. Objects not on display can be borrowed and taken to the studio. To see what is available, go to the Plastics Network website (www.plasticsnetwork.org).

The Gallery

The gallery is a major resource for contemporary visual art at the Arts University College at Bournemouth and has received regional and national recognition. There are regular gallery events, including collections on loan from galleries and museums, as well as individual exhibitions by some of today's leading artists, photographers, designers and critical writers.

It also functions as a learning resource and is integrated into the teaching, learning, and research practice undertaken at the University College.

text + work is the ethos which underpins the exhibition programme at the Arts University College at Bournemouth. The text + work concept promotes and provides a forum for challenging dialogue between innovative contemporary art, design, and media practice and its theoretical context.

There are text + work gallery events, critical texts, shared and networked exhibitions and a text + work website.

Student Support

Academic Guidance

Academic staff are responsible for providing you with feedback on your work and your general academic progress, and for providing academic support and guidance through the course. This is provided through "critiques" and written feedback, as well as guidance on practical work and informal discussion about your concerns. These sessions may be individual or, in the case of collaborative work, in small groups.

Academic tutorials are scheduled to allow you to discuss in depth matters relating to creative or theoretical work, or the course in general. You will be entitled to at least one formal recorded academic tutorial per term with a nominated member of the course team.

Support and advice is also provided on an informal basis throughout the course, through discussions between staff and students.

Career Education, Information and Guidance

You will be prepared for employment, and given the opportunity to learn about the various career options available to you, through a wide range of projects which may include live briefs or external competitions. Academic staff remain very familiar with the discipline, and will often still work in the field, and are also able to advise on specific opportunities.

The Careers Service within the University College offers impartial, confidential advice, support and guidance, to help you explore and develop your career ideas and manage your future career successfully. The Service offers individual career guidance interviews, as well as advice on job seeking strategies, CVs and interview skills, self-employment / freelancing, and further study opportunities.

The Senior Careers Officer holds regular lunchtime lectures, which cover a range of popular careers topics, including Postgraduate study and funding, Career planning, Networking and self-marketing, and Teaching as a career. Full details and dates of forthcoming lectures are available on the Careers intranet pages and on the Student Services notice boards.

The Careers Service also offers specialist events, working in partnership with local employers, AUCB alumni, and external agencies to bring together a range of art, design, media and performance expertise.

Learning Support

Support for students with disabilities (including dyslexia)

The Arts University College at Bournemouth is firmly committed to a policy of equal opportunities for all students and positively welcomes applications from people with disabilities and/or additional needs. Throughout all aspects of University College life, we actively encourage and support the participation of students with disabilities. We aim to support disabled students by offering needs assessments and support plans which enable you to achieve your personal goals.

The Learning Support team provides academic support for students with specific learning difficulties including dyslexia. We ask all new Home students to complete a 'Quicksan' screening programme when they join the University College. This screening is designed to check your learning style (the way you learn best) and whether you might have signs of dyslexia. If appropriate, you will be referred to an educational psychologist for a full assessment.

Students with a specific learning difficulty such as dyslexia are able to access individual tutorials aimed at improving your independent study skills, and are supported in applying for the Disabled Students' Allowance, which can provide specialist equipment and, if appropriate, personal support. The Senior Disability Officer and Wellbeing Officer provide ongoing support and advice for students with all other types of disability, including mental health difficulties, physical disabilities, medical conditions and sensory impairments.

Support for students for whom English is a second language

If English is not your first language you will be invited to complete a brief written exercise during the initial weeks of your course, so that your current academic language skills can be assessed. Our English for Academic Purposes (EAP) tutors, who are part of the Learning Support team, will review the exercise and contact you if your work indicates that you would benefit from additional support. An EAP tutor will work with you to draw up an Individual Learning Plan, which will set out a structured approach to developing your independent academic and study skills. This may include helping you to develop strategies for interpreting assignment briefs, working on the structure of your written work, or developing your proof-reading skills, for example. The plan will be reviewed each term and will be shared with your course tutor so that they are aware of the work you are doing to improve your study skills. If necessary, your EAP tutor will refer you to a local language school so that you can improve your generic English language levels.

Pastoral support and guidance

Support and advice on non-academic matters is provided through trained and qualified professional staff within Student Services. We have a team of professionally qualified male and female counsellors, with appointments available during weekdays and evenings. Students accessing the service are offered various levels of support ranging from regular weekly sessions, occasional support or just a "one off" consultation. In most cases, you can expect to be seen for a session within two days of making initial contact with the service. If the situation is very urgent and you are very emotionally distressed, we also have a crisis support service and you will be seen by one of our counsellors almost immediately.

Pastoral support is also available from the AUCB Chaplaincy. The Chaplaincy at the Arts University College at Bournemouth is shared with Bournemouth University and is an inclusive Chaplaincy, which welcomes people of all faiths and none. The Quiet Room and the Islamic Prayer Room are in regular use by staff and students, and meetings with ministers of any faith can be arranged.

Advice and support with practical issues such as funding, accommodation or childcare is available from the Student Advice, Funds and Accommodation Office within Student Services.

Methods for Evaluating and Improving the Quality and Standards of Teaching and Learning

The course is subject to the University College's rigorous quality assurance procedures which involve subject specialist and internal peer review of the course at periodic intervals, normally of 5 years. This process ensures that the course engages with the national Subject Benchmarks and references the Framework for Higher Education Qualifications.

In addition all courses undertake an Annual Course Review which takes account of relevant information such as:

- External Examiners' Reports
- Key statistics including data on application, retention and achievement
- Results of the National Student Survey

- Results of the in-house Student Perception Survey
- Feedback from Student Representatives
- Feedback from relevant employer groups, including the course Industry Liaison Group

All courses develop an action plan arising out of this exercise, which is monitored by the Course and Faculty Boards of Study. Your student representatives can keep you informed about progress against the action plan.

Staff development priorities for the course team as a whole are identified through the Annual Course Review process, and for individuals through the Staff Performance Review process.

Indicators of Quality and Standards

The Arts University College at Bournemouth was granted taught degree awarding powers by the Privy Council in 2008 following an intensive period of scrutiny by experienced academics from across the higher education sector.

The University College was audited by the QAA in May 2011 and received a judgement of 'Confidence' in the management of the academic standards of its awards, and its management of the quality of learning opportunities. This is the best available outcome, and confirms that our quality assurance mechanisms are robust, meaning that we can have full confidence in the standard of course outcomes, and the quality of the educational experience we deliver.

Please note that this specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the course.
