

TEXTILES for FASHION

Develop your creative skills and explore the theories, techniques and styles essential to textile design for fashion with this specialist course.

3-week UK Summer course
July 2013

Offering a unique opportunity to gain hands-on experience in textiles for fashion; from three dimensional textile design to embroidery and surface embellishment, this course will support and enhance your existing design abilities and complement your textiles design knowledge.

Through a series of workshops you will explore the boundaries and possibilities of three dimensional and embroidered textile designs and be introduced to different design and making techniques.

You will create a fashion accessory - a three dimensional sculptured garment - developed from mood boards and design concept through to the finished item, with the opportunity to experiment with colour, texture, shape and composition.

You will explore how traditional stitching and embroidering techniques translate into modern designs, as well as be encouraged to experiment and develop your own creative identity through your textile designs.

The course includes study visits to places of interest (such as the Victoria and Albert Museum, London and specialist fabric shops) to further enhance your experience and will conclude with a presentation of your work and an AUB Certificate of Attendance to add to your portfolio or CV.

- Taught by staff members from the university's BA Textiles department in our specialist studios
- All materials, equipment and resources included in course fee
