University Music is a collaborative department, which offers a wide range of musical opportunities to students and staff of Arts University Bournemouth and Bournemouth University as well as to members of the local community. Our professional concert series, promoted in association with the Bournemouth Chamber Music Society, brings world-renowned musicians onto our campuses and recent performers have included the Allegri String Quartet, The English Piano Trio and the acclaimed 'cellist Natalie Clein. Our highly successful ensembles include a symphony orchestra, a string ensemble, a big band, a choral society, a contemporary choir and a chamber choir. In addition to regular concerts in and around Bournemouth, the university musicians enjoy playing and singing further afield in venues such as The Royal Albert Hall. Singing is at the heart of University Music's offering and past concerts have included performances of Elgar's The Kingdom, Bach's St. Matthew and St. John Passions and Britten's War Requiem in Winchester Cathedral in collaboration with the choir and orchestra of Imperial College, London. The chamber choir regularly sing services in Salisbury and Winchester Cathedrals and in St. Peter's Church Bournemouth. Many students take advantage of University Music's instrumental and singing tuition scheme, developing their skills to diploma level and beyond.
